Court Fight Over Certification of Gov. Bailey Looms

Mass Meeting Called Here by J. R. Reed Poorly Attended

ABOUT 20 TURN OUT

Judge A. P. Steel Endorsed by Three Committees for Chancellor

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The Arkansas Democrat said Friday it had information that a suit would be filed in court here Saturday to enjoin Secretary of State C. G. (Crip) Hall from certifying Governor Bailey as the democratic nominee for the senate vacancy.

Secretary Hall was quoted by the newspaper as saying that if a legal question was raised when Bailey's certification was tendered him, he would be guided by an opinion from Attorney General Jack Holt.

The Democrat said the court challenge would be based on a contention that the statutes do not extend to the State Democratic Committee the authority to make the "original nomination" for a senate vacancy.

Meeting Poorly Attended

Approximately 20 persons responded to a call for a county-wide mass meeting here Friday afternoon to discuss the nomination by the State Democratic Committee of Governor Carl E. Bailey for the vacant U. S. senate seat.

The call for the meeting was issued early this week by J. R. Reed of Sardis community, northern Hempstead county.

The meeting was not called to order. Only informal discussions were heard and there was no action in regard to selecting delegates to the "rank and file" convention at Little Rock next Monday.

The meeting "broke up" about 3 o'clock.

No refreshments were served.

3 Committees for Steel

A proposal by the Hempstead County Democratic Central committee requesting the State Committee to nominate Judge A. P. Steel of Ashdown as chancery judge of the sixth district left vacant by the death of Pratt P. Bacon of Texarkana, has been endorsed by Pike and Clark county committees.

Pike Committee Report

MURFreesboro.—The Pike County Democratic Committee, meeting here Thursday, voted unanimously to endorse the action of the Democratic State Committee in nominating Gov. Carl E. Bailey for United States senator.

The committee also urged the state committee to nominate Chancellor A. F. Steel and Circuit Judge Minor Milwee as the Democratic candidates for the offices that they now hold. Both are holding the offices now by appointment of Governor Bailey.

Chairman J. P. Kelley of Delight, who did not attend the meeting, submitted his resignation. It was accepted and R. W. Steel, also of Delight, was elected as his successor.

Chancellor Steele Endorsed

ARKADELPHIA.—The Clark County Democratic Committee, meeting here Thursday, adopted a resolution asking the Democratic State Committee to nominate Chancellor A. P. Steele as the Democratic candidate for the office.

Says His Gang Killed Lingle

Brittle, cold-eyed Ray G. Ward, alias Frank Fisher, told police at the Los Angeles jail, where he is pictured, above, that he was "with" the gang that killed Jake Lingle, Chicago newspaperman, in June, 1930. Fisher was arrested with four others, a short time after the crime, then released, police said.

Beer Operators Denied Permits

6 Operators at Hot Springs Refused License by D. L. Ford

HOT SPRINGS.—(P)—State Revenue Commissioner D. L. Ford Thursday refused to issue retail sales permits to six beer "parlor" operators in Hot Springs and near vicinity.

C. B. Lovell Sr., Garland county revenue inspector, said Ford had informed him the applications had been refused "because of so many unfavorable reports" on the establishments.

Permits were denied E. S. Brock, Lloyd Thomas, Bet Hall, C. Thomas, A. L. Belevins, and E. E. Merriott.

Lovell said operators of the establishments would be notified immediately of the commissioner's action. They will be given 48 hours to dispose of their stocks.

Zero Hour Nears Sino-Jap Trouble

Wide-Spread Hostilities Expected by War Observers

By the Associated Press
The month-old Chinese-Japanese undeclared war approached Friday what military observers called "the zero hour" before the widespread hostilities.

Opposing forces along the Pieping-Hankow railroad seemed rapidly nearing a collision.

To the north of Pieping, a clash was considered imminent along China's great wall. The threat of conflict spread to the central China city of Hankow.

Americans were reported fleeing across the Yellow river to safety in the south.

Japan continued to pour men and munitions into the trouble zone. China rushed central army units from Hankow to the north.

This Man Serves Term in Jail by Mistake

KELLYS ISLAND, O.—(P)—Kenneth Emery swears that the next time he gets into jail it will be with some provocation.

Emery and Edwin Ludwig, county investigators for the old age pension system, came to this island village in Lake Erie to check up on applicants. There duties took them to the town jail, where Emery noticed an open cell. He walked in to inspect it, and the steel-barred door clanged shut, locking him in.

Ludwig went for help, only to learn that the town marshal had the cell key and had gone off on a fishing trip. Several hours passed, with Emery helplessly rattling the bars and Ludwig hunting a key. Late in the day, the mayor managed to locate a spare key and freed the accidental prisoner.

Stirring Drama of Modern Surgery Is Performed Friday

Baby Delivered One Minute After Doomed Mother Succumbs

NEW-BORN IN DANGER

Doctors Wait for Mother to Die—Then Deliver Baby

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(P)—In a stirring drama of modern surgery, a three-and-a-half-pound baby girl was delivered Friday, one minute after her disease doomed mother had died.

Physicians struggled to keep the new-born alive despite a raging fever and high temperature.

Doctors had waited for the mother, Mrs. Mary Boccassini, 27, to die before making the delivery.

Incurably afflicted with tubercular meningitis, she was on her death bed as the time approached for the birth of her child.

Keep Death Watch

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(P)—Doctors and nurses kept a death watch at the bedside of an expectant mother in the Philadelphia general hospital Thursday waiting for her to die in order that they may deliver her unborn baby.

Mrs. Mary Boccassini, 27, lay in a coma all day, suffering from tubercular meningitis for which the doctors said there is no cure.

Doctors understood her husband Dominick, 40, objected to a post mortem delivery and they had asked the county court for legal advice, but when he arrived at the hospital late Thursday after working as a laborer all day, he said he had been misunderstood.

He said he would agree to anything the doctors thought best. If it was a question of saving the wife or the baby he would rather save the wife.

Mrs. Boccassini may live 15 minutes to 30 hours, said a doctor who for ethical reasons declined to be quoted. He and his colleagues hoped the baby would arrive before Mrs. Boccassini died, but they were prepared for an immediate post mortem delivery.

"The child will live for eight minutes after life has left the mother," one of the doctors said. "We will have eight minutes to have it."

Mrs. Boccassini entered the hospital a week ago. After she sank into a coma two days ago, the doctors notified her husband. It was understood by them that he objected to any operation. One reason he gave was that she had suffered so much he did not wish to have her mutilated.

Ask for Legal Advice
Doctors asked G. Coe Farrier, an assistant city solicitor, for legal advice and he in turn appealed to Judge Harry E. Kaldner in common pleas court who told the doctors the operation could be performed after the expectant mother died.

"Even an unborn babe has its rights," Judge Kaldner said. "If the doctors deferred to the father's objections it would be tantamount to condemning that unborn child to death. 'Thou shalt not kill' is still the law of the land."

"Such an operation might be considered in effect an autopsy and I know there is a law also which prohibits autopsies without the consent of kin in cases where there is no presumption or suspicion of crime."

"But that unborn child has legal rights, too," he concluded. "If the state has the legal power to destroy it also has the legal power to create."

Traxler Will Be Returned to Texas

Judge Rules That Outlaw Be Transferred From Oklahoma

ADA, Okla.—(P)—Roy (Pete) Traxler, wounded outlaw, must return to the Eastern Texas prison farm to complete a 90-year sentence, District Judge T. C. Crawford ruled here.

Crawford sustained a motion by Jess Dunn, state penitentiary warden, to dissolve court orders issued in Pontotoc and Bryan counties, where Traxler was charged with armed robbery in connection with his flight from the Texas prison farm, from which he escaped July 8.

The motion was opposed by W. V. Stanfield, Pontotoc county attorney; Ben Carter, Bryan county attorney; and Sam Y. Colby, Marshall county. Traxler is charged with armed robbery in Marshall county.

Owen J. Watts, assistant attorney general, argued for the state's motion to return Traxler to Texas officers in compliance with extradition papers issued by Governor E. W. Marland.

Traxler also fought extradition, declaring he would rather be tried in Oklahoma than returned to Texas.

Heir Vanishes On Job Hunt

A note left in his room by Alfred A. Knopf Jr., above, indicated that the 19-year-old son of the New York book publisher has struck out on his own to seek success in the Midwest or West. ## Kills Mother, Two Sisters, Himself

Worry Over Family Is Attributed to Act of Young Bookkeeper

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(P)—A young unemployed bookkeeper fatally shot his widowed mother and two sisters and then tured the gun on himself and committed suicide Friday.

Prescott Suffers From Wind Damage

Several Buildings Are Unroofed—City Without Electric Current

PRESCOTT.—Heavy wind and rain storm struck Prescott at 2 p. m. Thursday unroofing business houses on East Elm street occupied by Joe Boswell, the Western Auto Associate store, Dr. R. P. Hughes, the Horace McKenzie law office and the Farmers Supply Company on West Main street.

Scores of shade trees were blown down in the residential section and the city was without electric current several hours. Damage to stocks of goods from water was estimated at several hundred dollars.

Rainfall in White County

SEARCY.—Rainfall measuring 1.45 inches in 30 minutes here Thursday broke a three weeks' drought, reviving scorched crops in a large section of White county. Hot winds the past week accompanied high temperatures, reaching 101 Tuesday for the first over-century mark this summer.

Slight Damage Here

A heavy wind struck Hope early Thursday afternoon, but no serious damage was reported. Sand and gravel blew into the engine room of Home Ice company, East Third street, causing a belt to "jump" off the ice machine.

The ice machine was shut down about an hour while the belt was repaired.

Only a few drops of rain fell.

Believed Drowned, Returns for Visit

Man Has Hard Time Convincing Mother He Is Not Ghost

BRINKLEY, Ark.—(P)—Herman Carter had a difficult task in proving to his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Carter, that he was not a ghost.

He arrived home for a visit only a few hours after his mother had identified a body found floating in a narrow pit five miles from here as that of her son.

Carter disappeared from his home near Pine Bluff early in May and efforts to locate him have been fruitless. He declined to say where he had been since he left his home.

Officers renewed their efforts to identify the drowned man.

President Refuses to Take a Public Stand on Proposal

40 Senators Sign Petition Asking for Special Session

LEADERS AGAINST IT

Administration of Housing Act Put Under Ickes Department

WASHINGTON.—(P)—President Roosevelt refused Friday to take a public stand on the suggested special session of congress in the fall to take up farm legislation.

Asked in a press conference if he was in sympathy with the move in the senate where 40 senators signed a petition favoring an extra session in October, the president said "that was up to the senate."

Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Rayburn and Chairman Jones of the house agricultural committee said they saw no necessity for a special session.

Housing Act to Ickes

WASHINGTON.—(P)—The senate voted, after a warm debate Friday, to put the administration of the Wagner Housing Act under secretary Ickes Interior department.

The chamber adopted, 40 to 37, an amendment giving the department "general supervision" over the housing program.

Ickes had asked for the provision.

Agreement with Russia

WASHINGTON.—(P)—President Roosevelt proclaimed Friday a new commercial agreement with Soviet Russia by which that country agrees to purchase at least $30,000,000 in our products next year.

Session Is Asked

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Falling farm prices prompted 40 senators to propose a special session of congress this fall to enact remedial legislation.

They signed a petition pledging they would strive to have congress reconvene by October 15 if the farm legislation is not passed at the present session.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, suggested that the President might call such a special session if informed by the Senate Agricultural committee that fall that it has a farm bill ready for congressional action.

"It is not now contemplated that Congress will remain in session to enact farm legislation," Barkley said.

Back of the proposal for a special session were recent downward trends of cotton and grain prices, attributed by government economists to the big crops in prospect this year. Although corn and wheat prices climbed sharply today, federal officials said declines in recent months had cut millions of dollars from the potential income of farmers.

To guarantee producers a definite return, members of Congress have been seeking the president's approval for federal loans of 12 cents per pound on cotton, 75 cents a bushel on corn and 90 cents to $1 on wheat.

General Motors to Hike Auto Prices

Retail Listings of Automobiles to Be Increased This Month

DETROIT.—(P)—Plans for stepping up the retail prices of all General Motors automobiles were announced Thursday.

Following closely upon the price increase recently announced by the Ford Motor Company and the statement of General Motors' chairman, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Cadillac, LaSalle, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Chevrolet and Buick divisions of the corporation disclosed that the retail listings are to be increased.

Effective August 9 Oldsmobile prices are to be increased $45. After August 14 Cadillac units will be raised $100 and LaSalle $60. Buick will raise retail prices about three or four percent (from $50 to approximately $60) on August 9. Pontiac and Chevrolet have not yet determined the dates for their advances.

Because many producers were understood to be awaiting price actions by Ford and General Motors, authoritative sources indicated Thursday a belief all other producers will follow the same course. All have been affected by the increased price of materials and higher wage scales.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS.—(P)—New Orleans October cotton opened Friday at 10.93 and closed at 10.90, spot closed quiet, three points lower, middling 11.25.

Dictators "Old Stuff" in Central America

POLITICAL scraps among the nations of Central America have made little news items for United States readers for years. And, noting that another general had stormed a palace and upset a president, or that a group of rebels were besieging the legislature, our general reaction was a tolerant smirk and the light observation that "boys will be boys."

Now, filtering out of the jungle-bound capitals of the isthmus, comes a more disturbing piece of news. It is the warning cry that the bad boys there are tinkering with ideas "borrowed" from the transatlantic fascist "iron men."

On the face of the report that Guatemala, El Salvador and Honduras have set up a bloc of dictatorships for their mutual protection against disturbing elements "coming across the border," there might at first seem to be some basis for the alarm.

X X X

AT THE bottom of the movement is the fact that presidents of two of the nations are serving second terms contrary to constitution. Gen. Tiburcio Carías Andino of Honduras, inaugurated February 1, 1933, for a four-year term, is still in office. Gen. Jorge Ubico, president of Guatemala, inaugurated February 14, 1936, for a six-year term, also is still in office.

These two men, with Gen. Maximiliano Martínez of El Salvador, hold the reins for more than four and a half million people, including political prisoners, estimated at from 1500 to 5000 in Honduras alone.

Many a page in these dictators' tactical handbook parallels those followed in European dictatorships. Presidential palaces are guarded with machine guns; only the army is paid decent wages, and in some cases only the army is paid at all; substantial "menaces" are perpetuated for propaganda purposes. Guatemala and El Salvador have adopted Communism as their "bête noir," while Honduras still is satisfied to have the elementary common rebel and soldier of fortune "gnawing at its institutions."

X X X

JUST how this "fascist" concept managed to get its start and grow to such proportions so quickly, thousands of miles from the Italian and German centers of political holiness, really isn't so mysterious.

The fact is that the one-man, strong-arm dictatorship type of government was in vogue in Central and South America before Mussolini and Hitler were born. Testifying to this are the long years which United States marines and diplomats vainly spent trying to democratize the governmental processes of some of the temperamental new world nations.

If anyone is afraid, then, that Central America is doomed to be ravaged by the germ of fascism and dictatorship, he need only refer to the history of that area to learn that its politicians can give any tyrant on earth cards and spades and beat him hands down at the tricks of the trade.

This Gangster World

EVERY once in a while there pops up an odd little sidelight on a changing world. The other day the New York papers recalled that it is just 25 years since Herman Rosenthal was murdered by gangsters.

Since that day there have been many gang murders. But the murder of Rosenthal is generally regarded as the first done in modern gang style. It inaugurated the era of the modern gang murder.

The odd thing is this: the term, gangster, was invented at that time by harassed New York newspapermen trying to find a short way to say "member of a gang."

What with the movies and the pulp magazines, not to speak of the newspapers, the word gangster must be one of the first words a tiny child learns these days. It seems odd to think that only 25 years ago there were people who had never heard the word, never faced the reality. So fast the whirling world spins 'round!

The Family Doctor

T. M. Bog, D. V. & P. O. E.

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Other Diseases, as Well as Rickets, May Be Caused by Lack of Vitamin D

In this, the ninth of a series, Dr. Morris Fishbein describes more of the ill effects absence of vitamin D has upon the body.

(No. 283)

In addition to rickets, which is the obvious effect of lack of vitamin D, the human being may show relative lack of this substance in various ways.

For long it has been felt that the loss of teeth by pregnant women was due to the fact that the growing child absorbed from the mother the necessary substances which she required in her own body in order to maintain it in a normal state.

Thus, expectant mothers and especially those nursing babies, are now urged to take extra amounts of vitamin D regularly. They are also urged to take proper amounts of calcium and phosphorus in order to keep up the supply.

This is particularly important for the nursing mother, since calcium and phosphorus are given off in the milk for the baby, and the mother suffers from a lack of these elements if she fails to take an extra supply during the nursing period.

No one knows now whether the human being requires much extra vitamin D after he has reached adult age. For a long time it has been recognized that miners who work much of the time underground, and therefore do not seem to show any symptoms or evidence of a lack of vitamin D.

However, it must be remembered that the miner is an adult and that even the miner is likely to come up at least once a week for an afternoon in the sunshine. In this case, he may develop enough vitamin D in that one afternoon to carry him for the remainder of the week.

It is safer, of course, to add enough cod liver oil, cheese, butter or cream to get the extra vitamin D that is needed.

With each of the vitamins, as well as with vitamin A, it is recognized that a deficiency will lower the resistance of the body; and there may be secondary infections indicating lack of resistance to infectious diseases.

Thus everyone should examine his diet to make certain that it contains sufficient amounts of calcium, phosphorus, and of vitamin D to prevent rickets, inhibit bone deformities, control defects and caries of the teeth, and to control the secondary symptoms of vitamin D deficiency that have been mentioned.

If the average person eats a well-balanced diet containing particularly milk, butter and eggs, he need worry little about vitamin D deficiency. This does not apply, however, to the growing infant, since they require additional vitamin D.

If they do not get sufficient vitamin D, they are likely to develop sooner or later the ugly symptoms associated with rickets and have the general weakness and a tendency toward early death which severe rickets inevitably implies.

NEXT: Eye inflammation, caused by lack of vitamin A.

Calico was first brought to England by the East India company in 1613.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Spare Child From Always Feeling Guilty

We should try, if possible, to avoid installing a sense of chronic guilt in children. When correction or criticism is required, the parent should keep this in mind.

To feel guilty when one is guilty is normal, and the miscreant should be aware of his failure. After all, repentance is good for the soul and to realize that one has misbehaved is all there is to conscience. However,

I believe that no one suffers more chronic guilt is a different thing. It means that the person who possesses this feeling has lost complete self-respect. He may be a rather dutiful person, at that, but will suffer constantly in his conscience, for works that he cannot help, or that worked out wrong when he had the highest motives in acting as he did.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDITH IRVING, heroine.
AMERICA's best dressed woman.
PHILIP IRVING, Judith's ex-triangulated husband.
MARTIN ROGERS, Judith's rival.
BUCKE KNIGHT, author, Judith's old classmate.
MILICENT BAYNE, Bucke's protégé.

Yesterday, Judith and Millicent leave by plane for Reno. They encounter severe storms over the Rockies, the ship lowers, they are ordered to "Prepare to land!"

CHAPTER VIII

THE mountain and the airship were coming together, Judith sensed, while her thoughts crowded together until they beat against her brain. Together—but they didn't meet—they were taking a long, long time to crash. If only it would be swift!

The crash that broke the mountain's storm came then. It was sharp and definite but it did not reverberate as she had expected. The ship shook itself with a tremendous spasm and then lay still. Judith, thrown to the floor, felt her head bump something and knew that it hurt. Voices were raised. Someone screamed. Somebody flashed a light. People were standing up. She realized that she wasn't hurt.

"Millicent," she called.
"Judith! Are you all right?" the girl answered. "The ship stood the shock. Oh Judith, we're alive!"

We're alive! It was good to hear. She would see Phil again, she told herself simply. Maybe the pattern would change to the old familiar one.

SHE thought then of Millicent who was thinking about Bruce and wondering at his reaction.

"He will be relieved and happy to know you're safe," Judith said, forgetting that she used an antecedent instead of Bruce's name.

"Yes, he has his own ship and knows the dangers," Millicent said. "Funny, when he'll turn any kind of a somersault that he gets all goofy about anyone else flying, isn't it? He tried to advise me last night."

"Bruce flies?" Judith asked.
"Bruce?" Millicent laughed.
"No, not Bruce. Ronnie." Her face grew serious and rather tired.

"Bruce doesn't know that we came." The night was cold, the hills were high, and the stars were gone. A few moments before they had glimpsed death in a lonely land. Millicent drew nearer Judith. "Judy, doesn't it hurt like the devil to love someone who doesn't want to love you? I wonder if Bruce will follow me?" They bumped along the hill road until they reached the town where wooden houses clustered at the approach to the mines and the ranches back in the higher ranges. Judith stretched her arm body as she alighted from the car. She looked around for her bugs, found they were jammed in the plane, would be sent on later.

Rooms at the little inn were at a premium. A rancher, standing in front of the hotel, who was starting on a trip to his home 30 miles beyond, tipped his hat and offered hospitality. Faded blue eyes smiled from a face that had weathered sun and wind and storms for 40 years. He was a man whom one could trust, Judith decided at once.

"Do you take boarders?" she asked.

"Well, not exactly. We have one young fellow there and a couple more comin' in a week or so. But you're welcome to the beds and the grub, ma'am."

There was time enough to go to Reno later. She had all of her life to reach Reno. Gray eyes shining now, Judith turned to Millicent.

"Millicent, shall we? We can proceed to Nevada any time."

"I'd adore it! I'm not very keen on gossiping with expectant divorcees anyway. And neither are you. You want a divorce about as much as I want rheumatism, but you're being game. Too game, my darling! I vote for the ranch house."

THEY went into the general store, which was still open, and asked to see clothes. Judith turned away from the rack of cheap cotton dresses. Then she saw the overall counter. There were white denim overalls on display.

"Have you cotton blouses in bright colors?" she asked. The store had. She chose a turkey red, a vivid green, a navy blue, a dull yellow, and smiled as she paid the little amount charged for them as she remembered the beaded jackets—four of the lovely six—that repoused in the damaged plane. She brought three pairs of white overalls, too, some white sneakers, and a dozen handkerchiefs.

Millicent, after a timorous look around, selected dark blue overalls and white blouses. Judith realized that the girl was trying hard to copy her ideas. To her, Judith Irving, best dressed woman terribly in this world than the man, woman or child who cannot tell the difference between his mistakes and his sins, and carries about with him all the hangovers of a lifetime.

So, armed with this knowledge, the parent is in a position to deal with "mistakes" more intelligently.

First, it is important to look into a child's motives or reasons for what he's done. Was he subjected to a temptation beyond his strength to resist? There is such a thing, you know. The baby will want to pull at the table cloth much more than four-year-old Charles, who, in turn, will want to pull the flowers. Six-year-old Anna wants to pull them, too, but she is schooled in better control, and can master temptation to a greater degree. It goes on this way, all along the line.

Second, childhood is impulsive and curious. It is the "find-out" time. Many of the things children do, have the same motives behind them as Franklin had when he tied a key to a kite.

Punished by Conscience
Third, when a child has really misbehaved and his action can only be put down to willful defiance, his punishment should be suitable to his crime, but it should end there without further reference and shame.

The sensitive child will react to slight punishment, usually. He is already punished by his conscience, although he may conceal the fact with his very life.

Any being with a perpetually sick conscience is not only miserable, but he loses normal fighting strength for the battle of life. He is self-conscious and fearful of doing even the slightest things wrong. It is so easy to confuse with inferiority complex that most of the time it goes unsuspected. It gets so bad that when accused, though innocent, such a child thinks he must be wrong, anyway. He lives in mortal terror of what people are thinking of him, rather than what he is.

Say to your child, "Well, that's all washed up. Now we'll forget it and try again. Better luck next time." It will pay. He must grow up with a fourscore attitude toward life, not as a cringing fearful person who looks guilty and feels guilty when he is not.

Happiness at Home After Whirl at Life

What is the best career for a woman? Business, home and children, a man's entertainment, or his good companion? Emma, the heroine of Louis Paul's newest novel, "Emma" (Doubleday, Doran and Co., $2.50), was determined to find out. Whether she ever reached any definite decision is doubtful. But she certainly succeeded in going life. "Emma" is the biography of the childhood wife of a successful business man, vaguely unhappy because of the lack of a guiding light in her dreamless drifting.

Leaving her husband, not for any lack of love, but because of the purposelessness of her life, Emma seeks both economic and spiritual independence. Starting with a small coffee shop, Emma progresses until she is president of a chain of popular restaurants.

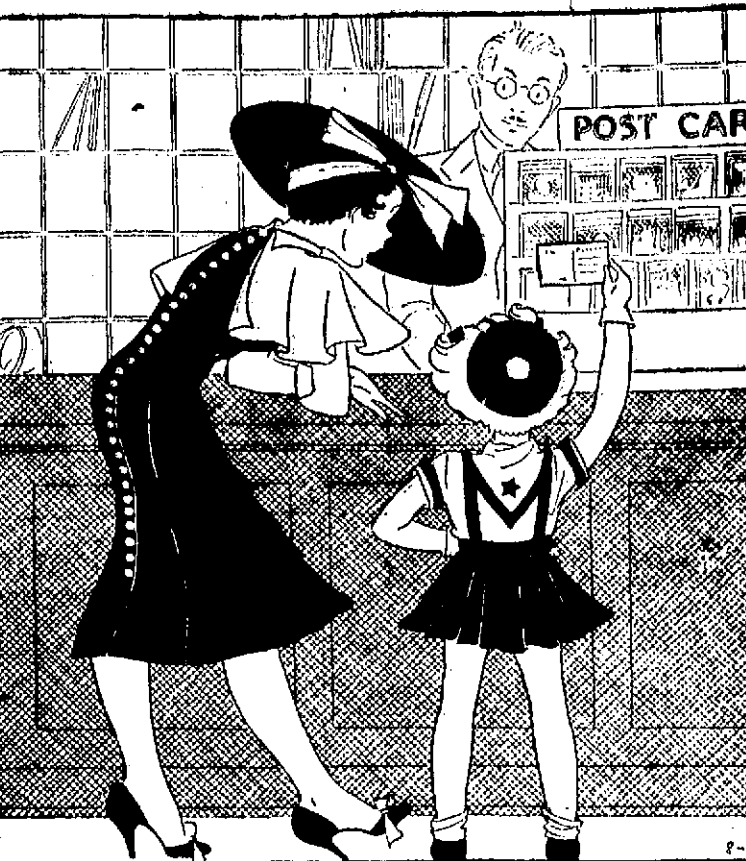

But even this success and the whirl of big business have not filled the emptiness of her soul.

So Emma is reunited with her husband and professes to find true happiness in the new home they construct. But the fact remains that Emma and her husband had a home before she

Expert Spins a Filmy Cobweb, and From That Is Spun a Yarn

HOLLYWOOD.—All over the lot, shooting sequences for "In Old Chicago" the other day, part of the company was working in Mrs. O'Leary's barn when a scene was reached which required cobwebs.

"There are no cobwebs!" observed Director Henry King.
"Cobwebs!" ordered an assistant.
"—and we gotta have cobwebs right away!" said a distraught property man into a telephone.

The company sat around and twiddled its thumbs and complained of the heat and waited. Presently a brisk little can carrying a satchel and an air of great responsibility bustled on the set. Any cobwebs today? King showed where he wanted a spider's lair.

The expert didn't set to work immediately. He studied the locale. He seemed to be figuring out how he would build a web there if he were a spider. The company fidgeted. King fumed.

Finally the man began spinning a web. He made it out of fine strands of rubber cement. Don Ameche strolled over to watch him. The actor said, "That's quite an art."

The expert glowed. He said, "Yes, yes—well, it's my specialty, you see, Cobwebs."

"Must be mighty interesting work," observed Ameche.
"Yes, yes, fascinating—if well done," said the spinner. "At some studios there is no real—uh—integrity. People are careless, or else they know nothing of spiders."

I went to see a picture last night, a mystery thing. Very bad! There was a scene which utterly spoiled it for me—they had a black widow spider living in a daddy-long-legs web!"

Ratoff Forgets Prejudice

After considerable wire-pulling through channels of local diplomacy, the three Russian trans-polar flyers finally were persuaded to visit Twentieth Century-Fox—a publicity coup for that studio. It turned out, though, that the aviators weren't much interested in the stars, in spite of the fact that the stars were very curious indeed about the flyers.

Production was disrupted for hours. The Soviet trio seemed concerned only with technical aspects of picture-making.

Entering the cafe for lunch, they created quite a flurry. One of their self-appointed welcome was Gregory Ratoff. A White Russian, and a bitter critic of the Soviets, Ratoff laid aside his prejudice for awhile and was right in the center of things—posing for pictures and sitting between two of the visitors at the table.

So prominent was he in the festivities that Eddie Cantor, watching from a nearby table, arose and in ringing tones proposed "Three cheers for Ratoff!"

Tears Must Be Real
Joan Bennett is appearing in "I Met My Love Again"—and appearing very attractively, too. But for Marlene Dietrich, probably no actress in town prinks quite as much as the younger Bennett.

Her entrance on a set is something to see. Close at her heels move five persons a hairdresser, a make-up man, a wardrobe woman, her personal maid and her secretary.

You will hear frequently of "glycerine tears," but actually they're not used in movies anymore. Only real tears will do—real ones artificially stimulated.

I watched six takes of a mildly sobby scene between Miss Bennett and Henry Fonda, and before each one the make-up man had to make her cry. He did it by blowing into her eyes through a menthol-laden tube which looks like a fountain pen.

Keeping 'Em Guessing
Johnny Downs and Eleanor Whitney are rehearsing dance routines for "Summer Romance." It was nearly 6 o'clock the other evening when I found them on a vacant stage, whirling and tapping before a huge mirror.

They were frazzled but cheerful, still keeping up that ribbing banter which has all Hollywood guessing whether they're in love or not.
Rushing a minute, she said, "Johnny, you've got to take me out tonight." He said he was broke. And tired. She said, "You're not to broke to take me to a movie. We'll pick out a musical, with lots of dancing. It'll pep us up to sit back and watch other people work."

Breads, rolls and coffee rings may be re-heated satisfactorily if they are placed in a paper sack, fastened tightly and warmed for five minutes in a moderate oven. They should be served immediately. If they are allowed to stand too long they will dry out.

Today's Pattern

BUSY days in the kitchen demand a comfortable dress like this one—and you can make it yourself in a few hours with Pattern 8038. It's a diagram pattern that is as easy as a doll's dress to put together. The shoulder yoke extends gracefully into a short sleeve and is cut with the fullness a heavy upper arm requires. The shirtwaist collar is a little lower than usual to add to the comfort of this dress.

There are so many lovely prints being shown in cotton and rayon for Fall, that you'll have this dress two or three times in your wardrobe. Try one of the small, conventional prints on a dark ground for immediate wear; later a pastel cotton would look cheerful.

Pattern 8038 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 yards of 35-inch material. If you want to make collar of contrasting fabric, 1-3 yard is needed. The Fall pattern book is now ready and includes 32 pages of late designs. Purchased separately, it's 15 cents. If ordered with the pattern above, send in only an additional 10 cents.

To secure your pattern, with complete step-by-step sew chart, send 15 CENTS IN COIN with your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER AND SIZE TO TODAY'S PATTERNS, 11 STERLING PLACE, BROOKLYN, N. Y., and be sure to MENTION THE NAME OF THIS NEWSPAPER.

Silence
I love the silence between dark and dawn,
Before the first faint song of forest bird
Across the sleeping meadowland is heard;
When light comes stealing softly as a fawn.
I love the silence when near twilight's close,
Beyond the lonely moor the wild geese fly;
Then vanish like a dark cloud on the sky.
And sea and land are veiled in scarf of rose.
I love the breathless silence of the night
When wrapt in stillness trees stand reverent,
Awe'd by the wonder of the firmament
When shadows o'er the world have taken flight. . . . Selected.

Coons Picks Best Movie of Month

Gives Version of the Best July Preview—With Reasons

By ROBBIN COONS
AP Feature Service Writer
HOLLYWOOD—The real mystery man of Hollywood is Producer Samuel Goldwyn.
Ex-glove salesman, the colony's pet target of jokes about the blundering producer forever revising the King's English, Goldwyn year in and year out puts on the screen, in the main, films that could spring only from a hand guided by fine taste and sensitive artistic consciousness.

These qualities are predominant in "Stella Dallas," in my opinion the picture of the month and one of the best of the year.

Once before, Olive Higgins Prouty's story of self-sacrificing mother love found its way to the hearts and purses of film fans for a sensational success. Goldwyn's new version is assured of the same reception. Along with its solid artistry it carries all the elements of heart appeal that make for box-office glory.

Fine Story of Mother Love
Barbara Stanwyck plays Stella, the millhand's daughter who marries Stephen Dallas (John Boles) from the upper strata of American society. Stella's idea of a "swell" does not change with marriage, and she remains hopelessly vulgar in manners, in choice of companions and clothes. Stella and Stephen drift apart, their one link their daughter Laurel (Anne Shirley). As the girl grows up, inheriting her father's finer sensibilities, the inevitable happens. She sees the mother she has adored through eyes she has inherited from her father, through the eyes of her own friends. Heartbroken, but passionately loyal, Laurel refuses to accept Stella's sacrifice of herself, forcing Stella to an ultimate test of unselfish mother love.

Under King Vidor's direction this story, rife with opportunities for sentimentality, never descends to that easy and common level, but hews to the line of legitimate drama. It is poignant. Those qualities are predominant in stuff, but never mauls. Vidor, with such films as "The Crowd," "The Big Parade" and "Street Scene" on his list, here shows again that he retains his creative grip.

Stanwyck's Masterpiece
Barbara Stanwyck's performance is of "rave" caliber, reaching a high point in the scene of renunciation, her visit to the charming woman (Barbara O'Neil) who will take her place as Laurel's mother. After this, when Barbara goes out with Robert Taylor, the fans probably will stampede Bob in their haste to get Barbara's autograph, which has not been particularly sought before.

An amazing performance by Anne Shirley is second only to the star's, and the three other principals—Boles, Alan Hale in one of his best character roles, and Miss O'Neil from the stage—carry their respective roles with the sureness and fine distinction that characterizes every phase of the production.

Burials Stopped by Grave Diggers

Grave Diggers in Kansas City Strike—Ask for Pay Increase

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—A strike of grave diggers halted burial of the dead in Kansas City Thursday. Mortuary receiving vaults and cemetery abbeys and mausoleums were used as temporary shelter for 10 bodies. The grave diggers, members of an American Federation of Labor affiliate, ordered pickets to the city's cemeteries. Their demands include a closed shop, union recognition, a 20-cent-an-hour wage increase and an eight-hour day. Approximately 150 men were affected by the strike.

Miss Nelson informed him, he said, that she did not learn the identity of the foster parents until 10 days ago and the decided to reclaim him since she and Regan were now in a financial position to rear him. While he was satisfied Miss Nelson was the natural mother, Crowley said, the Horsts had given the boy "excellent care" in their residence in an exclusive section of the north side. But Donald's major difficulty of the moment was the bell on the tricycle he rode in the orphanage. It wouldn't work.

Uncle Sam Tops Air Challenges With Fastest Fighter

"It is believed this plane can overhaul any air targets," is the modest way the U. S. Army Air Corps announces the development of the fastest fighting plane in the world, the XF-1, sketched above. So revolutionary is the craft that new tactics for its use must be worked out. It is a multi-seater, carrying a crew of five; has two engines operating purer types of propellers, which enable the gunners in the fighting cockpit, at each side of the pilot's cockpit, freedom to fire in any direction; is capable of climbing to 30,000 feet. The armament consists of six machine guns and light bombs. The Bell Aircraft Corporation of Buffalo built the experimental model.

Preparing for Brazil Flight

SAGAS OF THE SKIES

By R. C. Oertel

In the neighborhood boys saw around Pilot Otto Kafka of the New York Police Department and expect him to regale them with thrilling stories of his work in the aviation division of the department, they will probably be disappointed. The chances are that Pilot Kafka will, instead, lecture them on the dangers of taking small boats out into large bodies of water.

Within the last year this police pilot has twice come to the rescue of venturesome youths who put out to sea in skiffs. Last fall he flew from his post at Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, to Flushing Bay and there rescued several lads from what might have been a serious mishap.

This spring, Edward Hartman, fifteen years old, and Anthony Asbrack, thirteen years old, both of Brooklyn, found a boat unlocked at its mooring along the Brooklyn waterfront. They promptly rowed the boat out into lower New York Bay and were having a fine time when one of the boys lost an oar and the boat began to ship water. They managed, however, to work themselves to a buoy to which they clung to keep from being carried out into the Narrows and into the steamer channel. In the meanwhile they shouted for help and signalled their plight to motorists on Shore Road, Brooklyn.

Things looked pretty bad for the boys. They speculated on the possibilities of an all night stay in their precarious position. Suddenly, they heard the roar of a plane and in a few minutes the Police Department amphibian, piloted by Kafka, accompanied by Patrolman Frank Harkins, glided alongside the two would-be mariners. Pilot Kafka assured the boys that further help was on its way and awaited the arrival of a police launch. Before the launch came, however, he gave them a stern lecture, and when the launch arrived it found two penitent lads who determined never again to venture to sea in a rowboat.

F.D.R. Is Urged to Run for 3rd Term

Allred Is 2nd Governor Urging Roosevelt for Another Term

MEXICO CITY, (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred of Texas came out Thursday for a third term for President Roosevelt.

"If he is available for office, and wants it, then I am for him," the Texan said. He is vacationing in the Mexican capital as an official guest of the Mexican government.

"I am for him because of what he has done, but he has not a single heartbeat but for the people and because he commands the respect not only of the people of the United States, but of the entire world," Allred said.

He hedged at questions as to how widespread sentiment was for a Roosevelt third term, but expressed the belief that Texas and other southern states would back him.

Allred was the second governor in recent weeks to espouse a Roosevelt third term. Previously Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania had advocated the President's reelection.

EAT THE THEATERS

At the New

One of the most unusual Western action pictures ever unrolled on the screen, "Ghost Town Gold," at the New Theatre Saturday. Republic Studios in presenting the second of their "Three Mesquiteers" series, Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan, and Max Terhune, have chosen the interesting location of a deserted mining town for most of the exciting action. The "Three Mesquiteers," drifting into a Texas cowtown in the period when the West was wild, use both their heads and their guns to solve a strange bank robbery. They trace the stolen money to the abandoned mining shafts and deserted buildings of the ghost town where they find an eccentric character, ably played by Melburn Morante, as the master of the town and its mystery. A spectacular and exciting gun battle takes place between cow punchers and the western outlaws in and around the decaying buildings. This second picture in the series is proof that Republic is providing top rank action players in support of their new and already popular cowboy trio. Their performances are outstanding, while lovely Kay Hughes proves a notable addition to the picture's exceptional entertainment value. The photography, particularly of the tunnels and interior scenes, strikingly prove that cameraman Jack Marta well deserves his recent promotion as chief of his camera crew. Director Joe Kane.

STORIES IN
STAMPSVANQUISHED INDIAN'S
STRONGEST TRIBE

Assigned to avenge the Wyoming and Cherry Valley massacres of the year before, Maj.
Gen. John Sullivan headed into the unknown Indian country of the powerful Iroquois early in the summer of 1779. Starting from the battered little Pennsylvania town of Wyoming (Wilkes-Barre), the expedition consisted of 2300 men, short of clothing, ammunition and food.

Ahead of them lay the vast Iroquois empire, comprising North Central and Western Pennsylvania, and 20 of the richest counties of New York—a great uncharted area, ambushed practically every mile of the way. The Iroquois was the strongest of Indian nations and was backed, moreover, by the British residing in Canada, Detroit and the western part of New York.

On Aug. 29, near the present site of Elmira, N. Y., General Sullivan successfully turned an Indian attempt at ambush into real battle and emerged a gallant victor. Thereafter the Iroquois were pursued across the state and back until only one town was left in the entire nation. Sullivan destroyed crops, villages and tribesmen. He returned east in October after one of the most decisive campaigns in revolutionary history.

His work knocked the Iroquois out of the war and demoralized
British plans for a western offensive. General Sullivan is shown on a commemorative stamp issued in 1929 on the 150th anniversary of his campaign.

Cargile and Powell Battle To Draw In Four Rounds

Furious Battles Staged at Arena

Four Knockouts Enliven South Walnut Fight Program

A sensational four-round battle between Nolan (Twosies) Cargile of Hope and Milton Powell, the pride of Palmos, climaxed a night of furious fighting which claimed four knockouts at the South Walnut street arena Thursday night.

The Cargile-Powell fight, which held spectators tense throughout the four rounds, ended in a draw. It was hard-fought from the opening bell to the final minute, and was the second time the two athletes have battled to a draw.

A big delegation of Palmos fans, which helped swell the stadium to capacity proportions, rallied around Powell. Cargile had an equal number of boosters pulling for him.

At the start of the battle Cargile rushed from his corner and pounced upon his opponent with two stiff left jabs to the face. Powell took it and then retaliated with blows to Cargile's head.

Determined to win, both fighters fought fast throughout the four rounds, giving the appearance of a first-class grudge battle. Cargile brought blood in the second round, but it was a minor injury to Powell's lip which did not handicap the Palmos pounder.

The preliminary battles were hard-fought as shown by four knockouts.

Hugh (Cussin) Carson, Hope High School football player, knocked out Dalton Hulsey of Washington in the second round of a scheduled three-round scrap.

Carson was master of the situation from the opening bell. He sent Hulsey to the mat for a count of nine in the first round. With a series of hard blows to the face and head, Carson knocked out Hulsey about the middle of the second round. Blood spurted from Hulsey's nose and lips and a physician was called to give him aid.

The Carson-Hulsey fight was announced from the ring by promoter Bert Mauldin as strictly an amateur battle with no compensation of any kind.

W. L. McCoy and O'Dell Griffith, both of the Alton CCC camp, fought to a draw in three rounds.

Thurston Hulsey of Washington took a three-round decision from Truman Arrington, also of Washington. It was announced as a grudge battle at the start, and proved to be a lively affair.

Phokie Carrigan of Hope knocked Claude Woods of the Lost Prairie community in the second round of a scheduled three-round battle. Carrigan, with hard blows to the face, knocked his opponent to the mat for a count of nine in the opening round—but the bell saved Woods.

Carrigan, more aggressive in the second round, knocked Woods out soon after the round started. Woods was carried limp to his dressing room.

Chester Yerger, Hope negro, scored a first-round knockout over Cleveland Muldrow of Hope.

Sam Pindexter, Hope negro, scored a first-round knock-out over Charles Sanders in the opening battle of the night.

Coaker Triplett Is Sold Chicago Cubs

Leading Southern League Batter to Report at End of the Season

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(P)—Tom Watkins, president of the Memphis Baseball Club of the Southern Association, announced Thursday the sale of Coaker Triplett, league-leading batsman, to the Chicago Cubs of the National League. Triplett, a sensational young player during his three years in organized baseball, will go to the Cubs at the end of the season for an unnamed amount of cash and two players yet to be named.

An outfielder, Triplett came to Memphis this year from Nashville and has been the spearhead of the Chicks' attack with his consistent hitting. His current batting mark stands at .370 and he is regarded as one of the best defensive outfielders in the league.

He showed promise last year of becoming an outstanding player when he batted .341 for the Nashville Vols, and played his position like a veteran. Triplett attended the Appalachian Teachers College in North Carolina. He is 24, is stockily built and has powerful arms and legs.

Figures Show Rise of Porker Teams

Razorbacks Have Come to Front in Southwest Conference

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(P)—The past four years have seen University of Arkansas Razorbacks football teams rise from Southwest Conference second divisions outfits to consistent title contenders, figures released by the school's news bureau showed Friday.

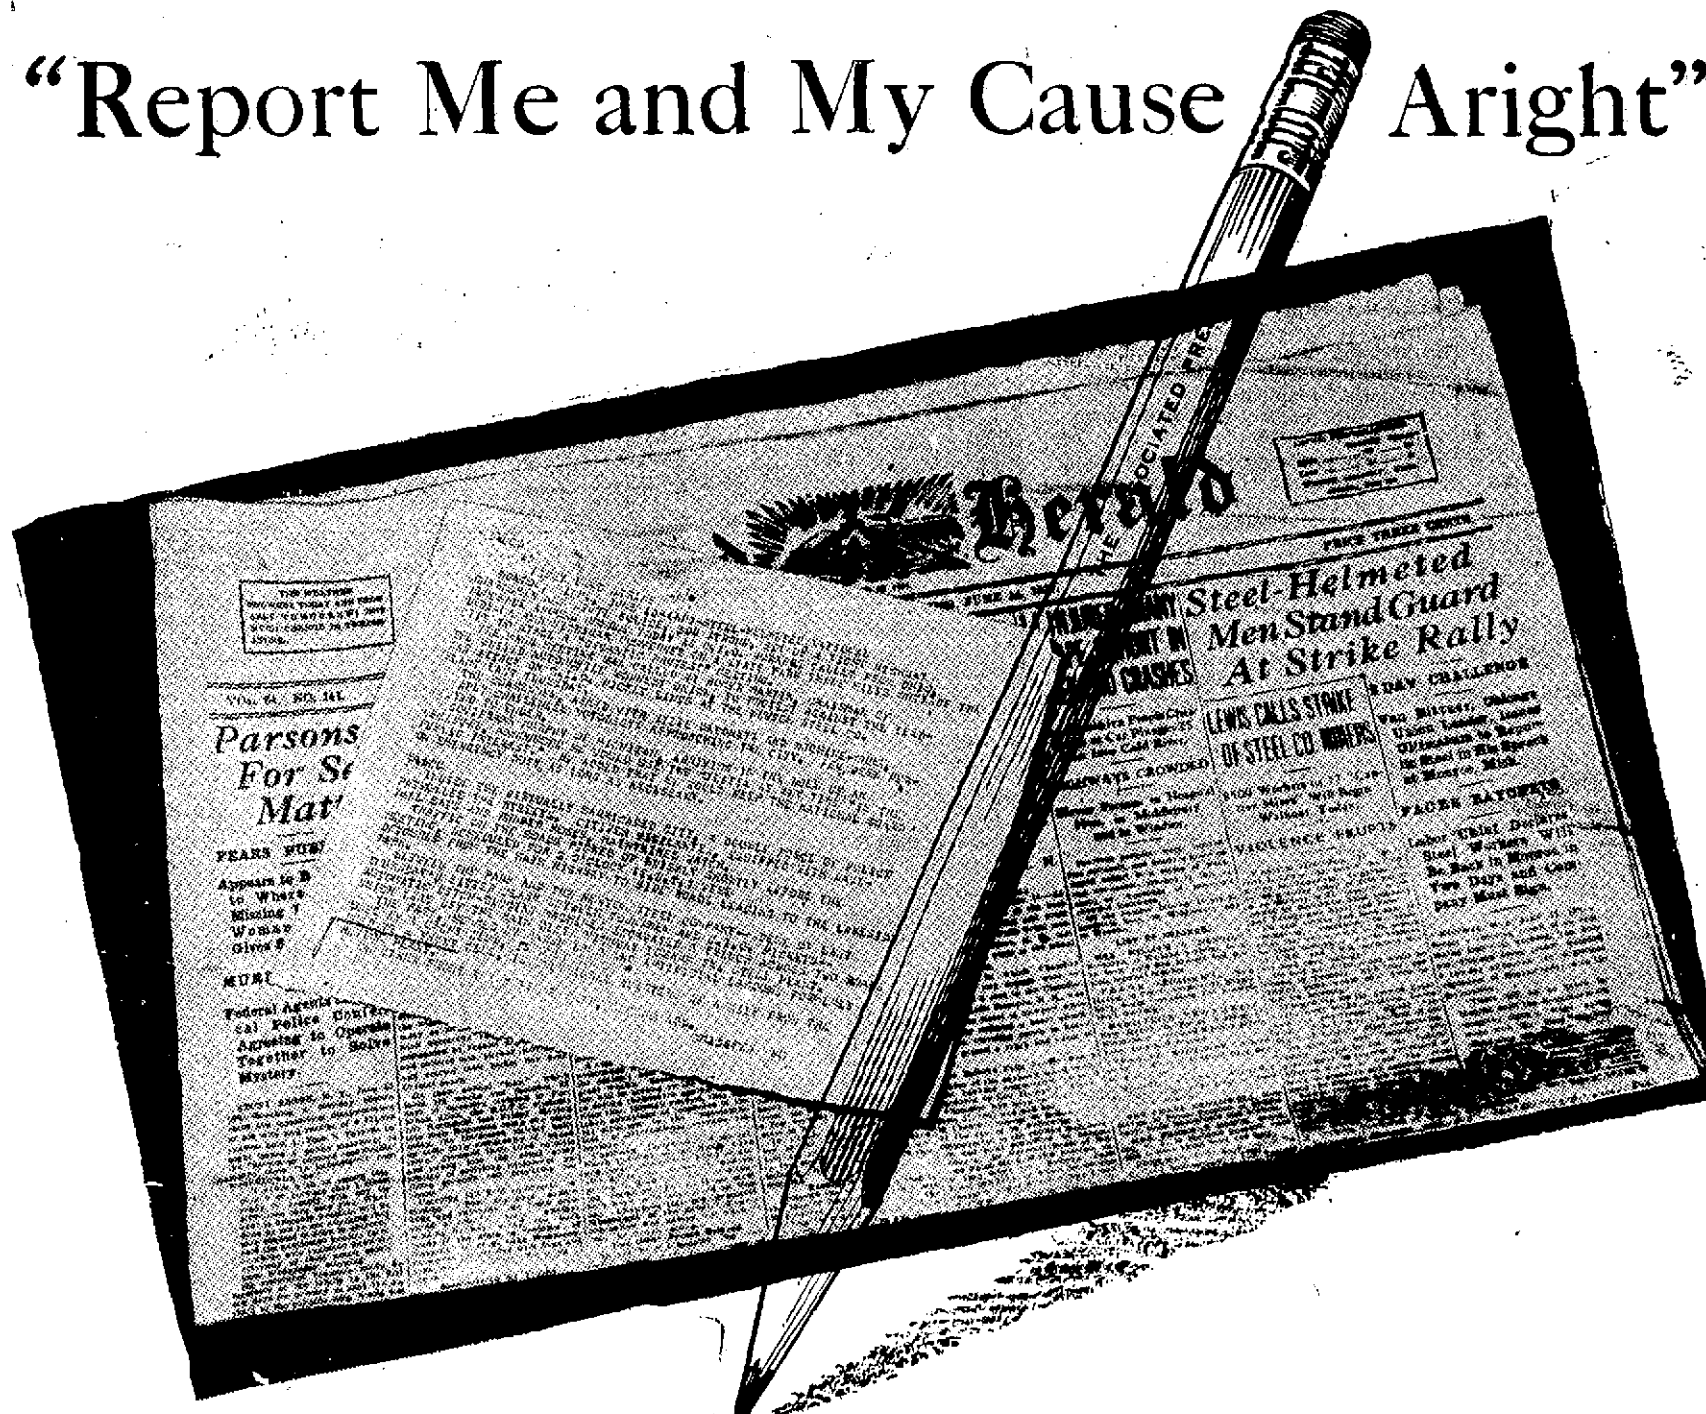

In this time the Razorbacks won 14 conference games, lost eight and tied one for a .593 percentage, capturing two conference championships, one of them unofficial.

The preceding six years the best they could do was seven wins against 15 losses and no titles.

The Porkers have made their best showing against Texas A. and M. in the 10-year period, winning five, losing one and tying one. Their poorest record has been against Rice. They won one out of seven games with the Owls.

Arkansas basketball teams have been more consistent winners. In 13 years of the conference sport, the Porkers have won six undisputed championships and tied for another.

Razorback Booster Meeting Is Called

Boyd Cypert and Dwight Sloan Will Be Here August 17

The University of Arkansas Razorback club of Hope will hold a meeting Tuesday night, August 17, in the banquet room of Hotel Barlow, it was announced Friday by Earl Thompson of Hope, Razorback Alumnus.

Boyd Cypert, business manager of athletics of the University, will be here with motion pictures showing the Razorbacks in spring training and of the prospects for this fall.

Dwight Sloan, one of the famous passing Porkers, is expected to be with Cypert.

The following letter from Mr. Cypert was made public by Mr. Thompson: "Mr. Earl Thompson

"Dear Earl: I am making a hasty trip over the state in the interest of the boosters and the Razorbacks. I will have movies of our spring game, which will give the Boosters some idea of our prospects for this fall.

"I will also show some other interesting activities on the campus, including some of the improvements. I hope to have some interesting dope by 'word of mouth,' not only as to these prospects but as to ticket information for our Conference games to be played in Memphis and Little Rock.

"It is also possible I may have with me Dwight Sloan, one of the famous passing Porkers.

"I am satisfied there are a number of Razorback fans that would be interested in seeing these pictures and hearing this information and I hope we might get up such a meeting there. I have arranged my itinerary so that I will be there on Tuesday, August 17th, at 8 p. m., and I shall appreciate it very much if you will try to get together a group that you think will be interested.

"As I have to make three or four towns a day because of the short length of time I hope that the meeting can be held at the time specified. It may be impossible for you to do this and if it is I do hope that you will contact someone who is interested and will assist you in getting up such a meeting.

"I assure you what you have done and what you are doing to build up the Razorbacks is greatly appreciated. Looking forward with pleasure to seeing you, and with all good wishes, I am,

"Sincerely yours,
Boyd Cypert."

Alley Is Any Thing But Heaven to Officer

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Police Officers Barchard and Dean entered the dark alley with pistols drawn to investigate complaints that a man lurked in the shadows.

"Put up your hands," they shouted when they spied a figure moving in the deepest shadows. Then they turned their flashlights on the man.

There stood Paul Haradon, Chicago amateur astronomer, with his some-made telescope trained on the constellations.

"I was just making some heavenly observations," he stammered. "I picked this alley so the street lights would not interfere with the light from the stars."

The policemen left him there.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

God Feeds a People
Text: Exodus 16:11-20; 17:3-6

The symbolism of the promised land and of God's leading the children of Israel from bondage to liberty comes into every detail of that momentous march of a people.

Here in our lesson is the story of the quails and the manna, with the teaching that the Lord will provide for those who hear His word and obey His call.

Bread from heaven was this manna, and we are apt to forget, in the intricacies of modern life and in the abundant productiveness of our modern world, exploited with all the wonders of agricultural machinery, that all bread comes from heaven.

Man cannot create so much as a loaf without the help of the mystery of nature, and the miracle of the manna is, after all, no more wonderful than the miracle of our daily bread. It is a miracle simply of a somewhat different sort and different emphasis, and possibly it requires a different sort of apprehension and belief.

Moreover, the symbolism reaches very deeply into the realities of human responsibility. Manna was given only for the day. It was not some miracle by which everything was provided for man, with no responsibility resting upon himself. If he did not do his part in gathering the manna while it was fresh, there was none left over for the next day, for it became spoiled if they sought to keep it.

It is a great lesson in receiving and using today what God gives in opportunities and resources that we may not have tomorrow; and we all depend for the effectiveness of our journey through life upon this immediate use of all that God gives.

With the hunger for bread was the thirst for water, and thirst affected these children of Israel as it has affected the thirsty in every age. They murmured against Moses. Why had he brought them out of Egypt, that they and their children and their cattle should suffer and die?

Like the manna, the water came through the miraculous smiting of rock. Here is the symbol of refreshing and renewing, of God's provision of leaving water for the discouraged and famished.

We speak of this as a miracle, but it is no more wonderful than the miracle by which the water comes to us. Moreover, the water that came from the rock may have been a natural spring. It was the method of sacred writers to attribute all such things to the provision and act of God; and they were right in seeing the hand of God, where we today tend to forget all about God, and speak only of "Nature."

Our failure to see wonderment and miracle in natural processes is only because we choose to call nothing a miracle that we can explain according to usual experience and laws; but the conclusions of our experience and our laws do not explain things or account for sources of power and of blessing.

The mysteries by which man's wants are supplied are none the less mysteries because we choose to call them things "natural" and other things "miraculous."

The lesson of the story of God's feeding the people in the wilderness and of satisfying their thirst is that all along the journey of life, the goodness of God and the rich provision of His grace are available for man.

Farmers Make Over Billion On Cotton

Market Crop Placed at 14,371,472 Bales of Average Grade

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Southern cotton farmers pocketed over one billion dollars last year from the sale of cotton and cottonseed, figures on the 1936-37 crop announced.

The market crop was placed at 14,371,472 bales of about average middling grade and was sold at an average price of 12.39 cents a pound which, together with the sale of seed amounted to $1,113,233,054. The previous year's return, including seed, totaled $931,756,291.

The south itself took more than 50 per cent of the lint cotton produced. Dixie's takings were placed by the report at 6,584,000 bales, a new high peak and 1,262,000 bales higher than the previous top, established in the 1928-29 season.

Total mill consumption also reached a new high, totalling 7,798,000 bales against the previous record of 7,027,000 bales in 1926-27. Foreign consumption of lint, however, declined about 700,000 bales. Great Britain showed the maximum decline in imports.

The highest price for middling cotton at New Orleans was 15.99 cents a pound established on March 30, and the lowest 11.19 on July 29. The highest average for the ten government designated southern markets was 14.91 on March 30 and the lowest 11.14 on July 29.

Navy's War Dogs Get Rigid Tests

Maine Coast Is Scene of Series of Trial Tests for Ships

By HARRY FARNHAM
ROCKLAND, Me.—(AP)—Penobscot Bay on the Maine coast provides Uncle Sam the ideal testing ground for his fighting ships.

Nowhere else along the Atlantic coastline does the expanse of sea and the water's depth combine with proximity to mainland and deep water base to permit so well trials of sleek, gray destroyers and men of war.

All new vessels undergo trials on what is known as the Rockland measured mile course.

Smoke trials, left by a ploughing cruiser provide those ashore with the only indication that a $10,000,000 ship may be going through a series of standardization trials that rack her rivets an structure and every integral part from stem to stern.

A technical group of navy experts, known as a "trial board," supervise the tests, but these lighted-up gentlemen come ashore with never a word as to the results. The navy keeps its secrets.

Among these are "turning a corner" with the rudder flung hard down at full speed. Or the massive craft may "put on the brakes," with both anchors dropped while she travels at top speed.

For the conduct of speed tests, the course is "measured" by four land beacons, visible by day, lighted by night.

Two stand beacons, those nearest the sea, stand on islands. Inside beacons perch just opposite on the shore.

When a "sight" by ship's officers show the outer beacon lined up with its higher, mainland mate, the vessel begins its measured mile test, completed when it passes the line made by the other two beacons.

The early bird gets the worm . . . if he knows where to look!

WATCH a robin on the lawn some sunshiny morning. A few hops, then a pause. A few more hops, and he listens again. Then, triumphant, he pulls out a fat, wriggling worm. A silly bird, you would say, if he merely pecked here and there, hoping to stirl out lucky. Reading the advertisements is for you what picking his head is for the robin. For the robin, the advertisements tell you just where are the juiciest bugs. Look you up on the advertisements in this newspaper. They may save pecking on barren ground.
